IMPACT OF IPR ON INDIAN PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY

Dr. Ravi Sankar Kothamavva

"Intellectual Property Rights"

- Intellectual property rights are the rights given to persons over the creations of their minds.
- They usually give the creator an exclusive right over the use of his/her creation for a certain period of time.
- Like Real Property:
 - It can be bought, sold, licensed, exchanged and given away
 - The owner can prevent unauthorized use of his creation

What types of trademark exist?

Collective marks are marks used to distinguish goods or services produced or provided by members of an association. Collective marks are marks used to identify the services provided by members of an organization.

Certification marks are marks used to distinguish goods or services that comply with a set of standards and have been certified as such.
e.g. Hallmark, Silk mark etc.

Patentability Criteria

An invention can be patented if it is

- Must be NEW or NOVEL.
Must distinguish from "State of the Art" (prior art)
- Must have INVENTIVE STEP
Non-obvious to a person "Skilled in the Art"
- Must have INDUSTRIAL APPLICATION
Must be Useful
Must have Utility
- Must be part of patentable subject matter

The webinar started with opening remarks of Dr. TEGK Murthy, Principal of the Institution. Mrs Shiny Ganji introduced the speaker to the audience and started the session. Dr. Rahul Kapoor discussed about the patent laws and how they should protect their intellectual property. As per the spokes person view the invention should be protected and should not be copy. This copying may raise disputes not only in the researchers also between the countries. To avoid capital investment that already existing invention the governments established the IPR rights. With the help of this rights all the invention are came into one section and protected globally. For a time period it was protected later on it can be manufacture by any one where as in the case of arts it is entirely different. Spokes person mentioned the difference between the copyright, trademark and patent. He discussed about relevance of IPRs to commercialize the innovations in business start ups, how to boost the start up ecosystem through intellectual property rights. Mrs. Shiny extended a heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Rahul Kapoor for such a provocative and thoughtful session and is looking forward for more such spellbound sessions in the near future. The session went smoothly and successful for the students and faculty.

The webinar started with opening remarks of Dr. TEGK Murthy, Principal of the Institution. Mrs Shiny Ganji introduced the speaker to the audience and started the session. Dr. Rahul Kapoor discussed about the patent laws and how they should protect their intellectual property. As per the spokes person view the invention should be protected and should not be copy. This copying may raise disputes not only in the researchers also between the countries. To avoid capital investment that already existing invention the governments established the IPR rights. With the help of this rights all the invention are came into one section and protected globally. For a time period it was protected later on it can be manufacture by any one where as in the case of arts it is entirely different. Spokes person mentioned the difference between the copyright, trademark and patent. He discussed about relevance of IPRs to commercialize the innovations in business start ups, how to boost the start up ecosystem through intellectual property rights. Mrs. Shiny extended a heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Rahul Kapoor for such a provocative and thoughtful session and is looking forward for more such spellbound sessions in the near future. The session went smoothly and successful for the students and faculty.
